Using Your Specialty Dieline

Foldfactory dielines are provided in .EPS format. The files are named by folding style and then by side, A or B. Side A is the side that includes the mailing panel, and side B is the inside. If a template is labeled AB, it is because the back and front fold placement is identical, and therefore the AB file may be used for both sides of the folded piece.

It is recommended that the dieline file be imported into a professional page layout software containing two pages—one for side A and one for side B.

Customization Options

The diagram below shows the correct panel and orientation for addressing, as well as which panels can and cannot be customized with additional digital laser die cutting. The inability to customize certain panels is both a factor of mailing guidelines for self-mailing pieces, as well as a consideration of the integrity of the fold if altered in any way.

Please note that some alterations may be available by requesting a custom quote, and that altering the dielines may result in additional charges.

A

-  No custom digital laser die cutting when used as self-mailing piece
-  No restrictions on this panel - can be custom digitally laser die cut by order or custom quote, or traditionally die cut by custom quote
-  No custom digital laser die cutting due to integrity or complexity of fold
